BEHIND THE JOB: Wind Turbine Technician

What do they do?

Wind Turbine Technicians install, inspect and repair wind turbines, often working at heights to keep turbine components functioning correctly. They monitor performance, troubleshoot mechanical and electrical issues. Also ensure wind farms generate consistent, reliable renewable power for local and national energy grids.

What are their strengths?

- Mechanical and electrical aptitude
- Comfort working at heights and in remote areas
- Problem-solving and teamwork skills

How do they get started?

Start with a Certificate III or IV in Electrotechnology, Engineering, or Renewable Energy. Many technicians complete specialised wind technician training programs and gain experience through apprenticeships or entry-level maintenance roles..
