MONDAY 25 MAY #15

BEHIND THE JOB: Cybersecurity Technician

What do they do?

Cybersecurity Technicians protect computer systems by monitoring networks, identifying vulnerabilities, and responding to potential threats. They support security teams in maintaining safe digital environments across organisations such as schools, businesses, government agencies, and health services.

What are their strengths?

- Analytical thinking and attention to detail
- Persistence and problem-solving
- Understanding of digital risks and security practices

How do they get started?

Many begin with a Certificate IV in Cyber Security or Information Technology. Industry certifications such as CompTIA Security+, ISO awareness training, or vendor-specific security courses help build skills and progress into higher-level security roles.
